We run a range of Social Activities that are available to participants of all ages and abilities. Our activities are designed for children, teens and adults with a disability. They are fun, age appropriate, safe for everyone, and they contribute to your NDIS goals. We run our activities during the week, on weekends and in the evenings so you can chose the time that best suits you. Participate Australia also runs a range of special interest clubs that are open to all participants. In these clubs you can pursue interests like photography, cycling, general fitness or cooking.

We also have developed Life Skills activities that teach participants how to live a healthier and more fulfilled life in the community. We run a broad range of skills activities, such as financial literacy, road safety, safe use of public transport, housekeeping, healthy eating and cooking, swimming, water safety and skills necessary for developing and maintaining rewarding friendships and safe sexual relationships. .

School holiday and after school activities support an individual child or a small group of children. These activities are designed to be meaningful and engaging, while also teaching life skills such as using public transport and money handling skills. Some activities are run at a facility or children are supported on excursions to the movies, the zoo or to a museum.
